Teaching Reiki: How To Run A "Reiki Practice Day"

Hi, Taggart here, from Reiki Evolution. As promised, following on from my "How To Run A Reiki Share" articles, I am going to be talking about running "Reiki Practice Days" today. These are lovely events, designed to help build the confidence of your Reiki students in a friendly, sharing, informal atmosphere: partly about sharing Reiki, partly about teaching and supporting.

And where Reiki shares often take place each month, say "the first Monday of the month" or something like that, Reiki Practice Days are better hosted at, say, quarterly intervals, though of course that is up to you. If you host one, you and your students will want to do another one!

You can read my "How To" guide by clicking the link below:

I hope you find this article interesting and helpful.

Best wishes,

Taggart :)
