When People Don't Seem To Feel Anything

Hi, Taggart here, from Reiki Evolution. Last week I was talking about the issue of sensitivity to the flow of energy when you are treating someone, from the practitioner's point of view, and today I'm flipping the subject on its head, to talk about when the people that you are treating do not seem to notice anything, or very much, happening. What should we think about this? What does it mean? Are we just not very good at what we do? Is it just not working?

There are quite a few things to say about this.

You can read my thoughts by clicking the link below:

I hope you find this article interesting and helpful.

Best wishes,

Taggart :)
